Section III – Outreach Initiatives:

Based on the federal definition of full time of 30 hours a week or more Spokane Public Radio has 13 full time employees. Under the FCC's EEO rules, it is responsible for engaging in at least four outreach activities in every two-year period. The activities listed here completed in 2017-2018, together with the activities scheduled for the 2017-2018 calendar year will comprise at least four activities which comply with the rules.

Category 1 – Job Fairs

Our Volunteer Manager and other staff attended service learning events and job/internship fairs at local institutions. Job Fairs participated in during this period:

January 11, 2018, Spokane Falls Community College's Winter Community Engagement Expo, We recruited both volunteers and interns at this campus event.

September 5, 2018, Gonzaga's Fall Service Fest: Job, Volunteer, and Internship Fair at Gonzaga University, we talked with students about internship opportunities in radio production, literary production, and news/journalism and other volunteer opportunities.

September 13, 2018, Whitworth University's annual Fall Job & Internship Fair, we talked with students about internship opportunities in radio production, literary production, and news/journalism.

September 21, 2018, Eastern Washington University's Neighborfest: Community outreach and volunteer event, we recruited both volunteers and interns at this campus event.

September 27, 2018, Spokane Falls Community College's Fall Community Engagement Expo, We recruited both volunteers and interns at this campus event.

These events help build awareness of careers in broadcasting, and bring potential future employees as well as interns, to our attention, as well as building Public Radio awareness in our communities. We introduce staff to the community, and discuss station needs, as well as what we do and how we do it.

Category 4 - Workshops, Public Tours and Community Panel Participation

Community groups are encouraged to visit the station; visits in this cycle have included community members, high school students, civic groups and college students interested in learning more about radio and technology. Staff members of SPR are also encouraged to participate in community-based discussion panels as opportunities arise.

November 14 & 15, 2017, GM Cary Boyce, Music Director Verne Windham, and Chief Engineer Jerry Olson gave 60 High School students from The Community School tours with opportunities to observe board ops in the control rooms, and talked to them about public radio, programming, and technology.

February 28, 2018, News & Program Director Doug Nadvornick spoke at the Spokane Falls Community College Journalism Club. He talked with students about public radio, reporting and professional opportunities for them in media.

Category 5 - Internship Program

We train and recruit interns from area high schools and the community at large and also from within our volunteer program. Local colleges and universities whose students participated in the program this past year include Gonzaga University, Spokane Falls Community College and Eastern Washington University. Interns during this period:

Programming Support Intern, October 2017 through June 2018: Graduate Student from Eastern Washington University. This intern was supervised by Program Director Verne Windham. He recorded, produced and edited several book readings for The Bookshelf program. He also worked with local authors to create content for some special seasonal episodes of the Bookshelf. He worked an average of 3-5 hours a week.

News Intern, June 2018 through September 2018: Junior from Eastern Washington University. He worked under the direction of News and Program Director Doug Nadvornick. Duties included rewriting AP wire copy for SPR newscasts, archiving and uploading SPR news stories to the station website, contacting/interviewing news sources, and producing news and feature stories. On average the intern spent 20-25 hours per week on these activities.

News Intern, September 2018-current: Senior from Gonzaga University. He works under the direction of News and Program Director Doug Nadvornick. Duties included rewriting AP wire copy for SPR newscasts, archiving and uploading SPR news stories to the station website, contacting/interviewing news sources, and producing news and feature stories. On average the intern spends 15-20 hours per week on these activities.

Archive/Programming Support Intern, March through June 2018: Senior from Eastern Washington University. This music major was supervised by Music Director Verne Windham. She archived and prepared copies of locally produced shows and made CD's of our live broadcasts and forums for participants and listener copies. She worked an average of 8 hours a week.

Literary Radio Production Intern, September 2018 through current: This Spokane Falls Community College student is supervised by Arts Producer and Marketing Coordinator Chris Maccini. She records, produces and edits book readings for The Bookshelf program and Poetry Moment. She spends an average of 10 hours a week.

The overall supervision for the internships was provided by GM Cary Boyce from October 1, 2017 to Sept 30, 2018.

Category 11 – Community Events Providing Access to Local Students

SPR produces a seven family-oriented live concert series during the year, Free Kids' Concerts, which it widely publicizes in effort to expose local children to a variety of types of music, the performing arts, and careers in broadcasting. Flyers are distributed in four local school districts on a quarterly basis, and we also distribute thousands of flyers through principals in area schools elementary, middle, and high schools, requesting that they send flyers home with students and place flyers on bulletin boards and community calendars in the schools.

Category 12 - Job Vacancy Announcements to Groups with Significant Minority and Female Membership.

As job openings occur, the Spokane Public Radio Station Employment Unit provides job opening announcements to a number of national, regional, and local community groups and industry entities which have minority or female members. Because the demographics of our area include a relatively-small percentage of minority group members, Spokane Public Radio committed itself several years ago to notifying industry and professional organizations whose membership includes minority and female members about all upper-level and professional job vacancies, as well as posting such information on the career web site/bulletin boards of those organizations which provide such a service. In addition to posting on the extensive job site of the Corporation for Public Broadcasting, which all candidates for public radio jobs, including minority group members and women, are likely to consult; Spokane Public Radio sends notification to the following entities. These entities are present on page 2 with address and contact information.

National Asian American Telecommunications
Association

Pacific Islanders In Communications

American Women In Radio and Television, Inc.

Asian American Journalists Association

Black Lens News

Spokane Woman's Club

Category 16 – Volunteer Program

Spokane Public Radio has an active volunteer program. A Volunteer Recruitment Page is a prominent part of the Spokane Public Radio web site. Volunteer forms are also available at station events. Additionally the Volunteer Manager Stephanie Ingoldby, Development Assistant Neesha Schrom, and on-air staff attended various service learning and volunteer fairs throughout the year.

Data Entry and Business Support Community Volunteers (3), Ongoing: Under the supervision of the CFO Linda Stowe and Membership Manager Beth Severn-Johnson, these volunteers' primary responsibilities include data entry throughout the year and other special projects as assigned. These volunteers spend between 5 to 20 hours per week depending on needs of the department.

Event Support Community Volunteers (3), Ongoing: These volunteers act in support of event staff, primarily the Events Director Kathy Sackett and the Events Coordinator/Volunteer Manager Stephanie Ingoldby. Duties include: event data management, duties at events, and assistance at the station for live events, such as MusicFest Northwest and The Fall Folk Festival Live Broadcast. These volunteers spend generally 2-3 hours a week most weeks and as many as 15 hours a week the week of an event.

Librarian, Community Volunteer (1) October 2017-Current: Supervised by Program Director Verne Windham, the librarians' duties included sorting, organizing, and maintaining the SPR classical music library, as well as maintaining the related database. This volunteer also assisted in routine archiving duties. These community volunteers spent generally 10-15 hours a week in this position.

Programming Support Community Volunteer, October 2017 through current: This community volunteer is supervised by Program Director Verne Windham. He records, produces and edits several book readings for The Bookshelf program. He spends an average of 10 hours a week.

News Community Volunteer, June 2018 through September 2018: Recent graduate of Gonzaga University. She worked under the direction of News and Program Director Doug Nadvornick. Duties included rewriting AP wire copy for SPR newscasts, archiving and uploading SPR news stories to the station website, contacting/interviewing news sources, and producing news and feature stories. On average this volunteer spent 5-10 hours per week on these activities.

Community Producers:

Spokane Public Radio has twelve (12) Community Producers who create locally produced, original, program content for broadcast on both KPBX and KSFC. While each show is unique to the community producer/host(s) all shows are designed to entertain and engage our listening audience, exposing them to music, arts, and culture. Community Producers create, research, record, and produce shows ranging from the exploration of the roots of early pop and rock on Johnson's Improbable History of Pop to the depth and range of classical guitar on the Guitar Hour.
